

VIII Mon. October hath xxxi days.

What Legions of Fables and whimsical Tales
Pass current for Gospel where Priestcraft prevails
Our Ancestors thus were most strangely deceiv'd
What Stories and Nonsense for Truth they believ'd !
But we their wise Sons, who these Fables reject,
Ev'n Truth now-a-days, are too apt to suspect :
From believing too much, the right Faith we let fall;
So now we believe --- 'troth nothing at all.

Pinchall, possessing Heaps of Wealth,
Lives miserably poor;
He says, 'tis to preserve his Health,
But means by it, his Store.
Let Freeman but the Wretch invite
To dine on Good-Cheer gratis,
Then he will gorge, like half-starv'd Wight,
And cram his Nunquam satis.
